

What can I do with a degree in Telecommunications and Information Management (TIM)

Telecommunications and Information Management involves the integration of business information systems with telecommunications. Telecommunication and Information Management majors learn how to effectively run a business involving all forms of telecommunications, such as video, wireless, radio and television. Because of the constantly changing technology, careers in this field require much flexibility and willingness to continually learn.

Possible Careers

Product Forecaster/Estimator
Management Analyst
Production Scheduler/Planner
Software Support
Telecommunications Manager
Technician
Technical Sales Representative
Systems Analyst
Data Communications Manager
Production Line Manager
Management Consulting
Materials Controller
Market Research Analyst
Logistics Manager
Records Management Analyst
Operations Researcher
On-Line Services Manager
Corporate Management
Communications Specialist
Radio Production
Research and Development
Underwriter
Television Station Management
Relocation Analyst
Production Scheduler/Planner
Web Master
Operating Systems Programmer
Consultant
Cellular Systems Manager
End-User Technician
Computer Security Analyst
Electronics Specialist
Fiber Optics