

Social Welfare Action Alliance (SWAA)

The Social Welfare Action Alliance (formerly known as the Bertha Capen Reynolds Society) is a national organization of hundreds of progressive workers in the human service field, and is concerned with human suffering and injustice. It has organized advocacy marches and letter writing campaigns and conducted community awareness workshops to increase knowledge of human rights issues, and to promote social justice and fair treatment of the poor and underprivileged in our society. For more information about the activities of this organization, and times and locations for meetings, contact Dr. Don Cooney by calling (269) 387-3190.