SAVVY SNACK SALES TASK FOUR

A local food manufacturer, Snack Ems, has heard about this contest and has decided to produce the best snack. Having also heard about the astute students in our math class and that we have been studying this contest, they have asked us to present all of the information we have found to help them decide which snack to produce.

- As a group, using all of the information you have gathered, create a poster with your argument of which product will be the best snack for Snack Ems to produce.

- Include your data information, your graphical presentation, words, and numbers.

- Be as persuasive as possible.

- Present your poster to the class and explain your choice.