wmich.edu/extended/familyguide
Dear parents, guardians, and family members,

Welcome to our WMU community!

Western Michigan University is committed to you as a valued partner in your student’s education. If you are new to the college student experience, you will quickly find that parenting a college student is quite different than parenting a high school student. However you have and will continue to play an essential role in your student’s education. This guide offers you an excellent overview of WMU’s support services and resources, as well as information about the Kalamazoo area. This information will help ease the transition into and throughout the college years.

Parent and Family Programs partners with parents, guardians, mentors, and family members to promote and encourage student learning, responsible independence and personal development. We provide comprehensive information, advice and reassurance for you to better understand the University experience and effectively support your student’s success. We sponsor educational and social events throughout the year for students and families. Through responsive communication and active engagement within the University community, this partnership is beneficial and enduring.

The website, wmich.edu/parents is a great starting point for a wealth of information useful to you during your student’s years at WMU. We encourage you to activate your free membership to the WMU Family Connection to receive e-newsletters with tips and advice, important date reminders, and campus updates.

I look forward to helping you and your student have a successful and rewarding experience at WMU.

Warm regards,

Shari Glaser
Director, Parent and Family Programs
PRE-COLLEGE HOMEWORK

Remember the first time your teenager took the car out alone? You probably felt a sense of pride or apprehension or maybe both, along with a whole lot of other emotions. It was a milestone in independence and trust – a rite of passage that most families experience.

As you prepare your student to come to WMU this fall, there may be suggestions you want to share with your child to ensure his or her safety and wellbeing. We encourage you to offer your words of wisdom over the summer and throughout the upcoming college years, whether through heartfelt conversations or life lessons in snippets.

These discussion points are intended to get you started. You may be dismayed to find that the summer before college can be a time of increased friction in family relationships as you and your student grapple with the upcoming transition. Even so, your child IS listening to you and your advice IS valued and appreciated.

PERSONAL SAFETY

Coming to college is exciting and it can be easy to neglect basic safety rules. Encourage your student to:

- Be mindful of personal belongings – especially electronics.
- Pay attention when walking around campus and be aware of traffic – texting, music, and phone distractions lead to accidents.
- Keep doors locked and valuables out of sight. This is particularly important as students get more comfortable in their surroundings.
- Take advantage of the campus escort service when needed. Your student can save the number in his or her phone: (269) 387-RIDE (7433).

STAY TRUE TO SELF AND VALUES

It is normal for students to experiment with new and different opportunities. New experiences are what college is all about. Encourage your student to remain firm in his or her core values while exploring new ideas. Choose opportunities carefully and consider the long range effects of personal choices.
SUPPORT RESOURCES
Your student may have benefited from various support services during high school; perhaps a trusted therapist, accommodations for a learning disability or prescription drugs for a medical condition. Encourage your student to continue to utilize these resources to ensure success in college.

PROBLEM SOLVING
Students encounter unfamiliar situations in college – usually pretty quickly after the school year starts. Encourage your student to seek help in solving problems – whether with a roommate or in the classroom or simply feeling “out of place” and homesick. Starting with the RAs in the residence halls, we are here to help your student in every way.

PEER PRESSURE
Your student will soon make new friends and acquaintances and may feel pressure to try things that he or she is not comfortable doing. Encourage your student to stand strong and not give in to unwanted influences. Offer your reassurance that responsible behavior is respected and valued.

ALCOHOL AND DRUG USE
New students sometimes come to college with the assumption that everyone “parties” and that partying is the best (or only) way to “fit in” with the crowd. Statistics prove that the vast majority of WMU students do not consume alcohol or drugs on a regular basis. Remind your student that underage drinking and illegal drug use is against the law and will result in legal and/or student judicial consequences. Encourage your student to seek out a supportive social network that affirms good choices and healthy behaviors. Drive Safe Kalamazoo (a WMU student organization) offers free, non-judgmental transportation to a student’s residence hall or apartment on weekends. As a “just in case” precaution, we suggest this number be programmed into your student’s cell phone: (269) 345-0DSK (0375).

MONEY SCAMS
Does your student really need yet another T-shirt? Remind your student to be aware of credit card companies or other organizations that promise a T-shirt or other incentive as a reward for signing up for something that isn’t really needed…and might lead to poor money management.

CHOICES
Entry into college life is a whirlwind of new experiences. Poor choices can lead to unintended consequences. Whether to go to the social gathering down the hall or to study for tomorrow’s test may not seem like a big deal, but can be significant in the long run. Decisions like pirating music or movies from the internet can lead to unexpected disciplinary sanctions.

RELATIONSHIPS
Your student has a strong social network back home of family members and friends. As he or she embarks on the college adventure and forms new relationships, encourage your student to stay connected with loved ones back home.

One-Stop Convenience Center opens
A young person’s entrance into Western begins a significant transitional period for both student and family. Family members and students often experience a mix of emotions. Both may feel proud, excited, relieved, or happy and may also experience the more difficult feelings of sadness and worry. Both families and students face challenges as they navigate this new phase of life. As a parent or guardian, understanding the concerns that students typically have as they enter college can be helpful in supporting them through the process.

Students have to figure out a lot of stuff when they go to college. For those of us whose youth is the (distant?) past we can sometimes forget that being a college student isn’t a walk in the park! First year students are leaving behind a familiar and often very comfortable environment. They must cope with the loss of high school friends and family time. Students have to learn how to be a part of a whole new environment and figure out where things are, what the rules are, and how to behave. They confront all kinds of new opportunities to make friends and most have at least some fear that they won’t fit in or make connections with their peers. They have to figure out how to manage a lot of different elements: time, money, academics, freedom, and most importantly themselves! Further, they try to figure all this out without your constant presence and active guidance. Even the most together students find the developmental maturation process in the early college years to be stressful. Many students become periodically overwhelmed, especially in the first couple of semesters.

So how can you help? One of the greatest challenges parents and guardians face is how to appropriately support their son or daughter as they enter college. Here are some suggestions from veteran parents:

- Listen to your student and provide supportive encouragement
- Encourage self-reliance (but be a safety-net when things are really rough)
- Praise accomplishments soundly and attempts enthusiastically
- Keep them informed about life back home and family events
- Encourage active involvement with on-campus activities and groups
- Stay connected; email and texting may be a better way to connect with less verbal students than phone calls. By the same token, try to lessen over-reliance by decreasing contact when over-dependency may be an issue

“Do not go where the path may lead; go instead where there is no path and leave a trail”
– Ralph Waldo Emerson
• Discuss your expectations for your student before starting college and continue the conversation as the weeks/months progress
• Help your student connect to resources when needed. Urging and assistance may be needed in locating and accessing counseling, advising, and special services
• Balance is the key; reassure your student that while the transition may be uncomfortable, it is temporary and he or she will likely flourish in time

Remember that while your student is facing the challenges of a new phase of life, so are you. Expect that it might be a little rough for you to adjust to the changes too and give yourself permission to feel all the emotions that come when a child goes to college. Remember to find your own support. Reconnect with family, friends, interests, and hobbies.

FIRST-YEAR EXPERIENCE (FYE) PROGRAMS
Explore, Encounter, Excel

FYE supports students as they develop new social networks, adjust to the academic rigor of college, and learn about the opportunities and resources at WMU. Participation is important in each program because they build upon each other, helping students get involved and adjusted. Studies show that first-year students who are involved and engaged in campus life often experience greater success leading toward graduation. First-year students gain maximum benefit from participating in all three programs. Our services also ease the transition into WMU for transfer students.

New Student Orientation: The first official exposure to the University as a WMU student. During orientation, students and parents, guardians or adult mentors receive helpful curricular and co-curricular information. Students learn about academic advising, register for the first semester of classes, meet other students, and participate in fun and social activities. Parents, guardians and adult mentors have opportunities to informally and formally meet with faculty and staff from across the University.

Fall Welcome: A four-day transition program designed to strengthen the bond between first-year students and our WMU community. Students move into the residence halls before the semester officially starts, become familiar with the campus and local community, and attend numerous programs and activities to prepare for the start of the fall semester.

First-Year Seminar (FYS 2100): A semester-long two-credit hour transitional course that provides the tools necessary for first-year students to connect learning with life. Students continue to build lasting relationships and strategize for future success at WMU and beyond.

Transfer Student Services: Utilizes a comprehensive student-centered approach to help engage, support and empower students in their successful transition to WMU. Collaborative efforts effectively enhance the academic and personal success of transfer students as they continue their progress to graduation.

HOUSING
Residence Life provides a variety of services for on-campus students. Most students live in the residence halls. WMU also offers apartments for upper-level students, graduate students, and students with families. Living on campus offers convenience, the benefit of a community of peers, a safe environment, and support for the challenges associated with being a busy college student.

When students have problems or questions, trained student and professional staff are easily accessible. They help with everything from how to get involved on campus to tips for living with a roommate to referrals for campus services. In the residence halls, there is a resident assistant (RA) who lives on each floor. RAs are upper-level students who are responsible for creating a floor community through hall activities, assisting students with personal and academic concerns, and helping in emergency situations.

A full-time professional hall director manages each residence hall. The hall director lives in the building and is responsible for student staff supervision, facilities management, crisis intervention, and creating an environment supportive of education and self-discovery.

WMU students may have a car on campus, even during their first year by purchasing a parking pass. The pass will allow students to park in specifically designated lots depending on where they live. During the nicer seasons, many students ride bicycles, mopeds, scooters or roller blade through campus.

Another convenient transportation option is the Bronco Transit Bus System. Students ride the bus for free simply by showing their Bronco ID cards, both on campus and throughout the Kalamazoo area. Bronco Transit offers continuous service throughout the main campus, Parkview campus and Oakland Drive campus. Additionally, regularly-scheduled shuttle service is offered to and from the College of Aviation in Battle Creek. The Downtown Express on Fridays and Sundays is an option for students traveling by train or bus to other destinations on weekends.

Real Work Experience While at WMU

The BTR Park is home to more than 40 high-tech companies offering internships and co-op programs in life science, advanced engineering and information technology. This type of experiential learning looks great on your student’s resume.

wmich.edu/career/students/internships
The biggest stumbling block many new college students face is time management due to the drastic change in their daily routine. High school students typically have a fairly structured schedule. Students go to school for 6-7 hours; attend rehearsals or athletic practice after school, or perhaps a job; spend the evening studying or time with family and friends; get up the next day and do it all over again. Very ordered and controlled.

College life is very different and unstructured, offering a heady sense of freedom. Your student may only have courses on Monday/Wednesday/Friday – or on Tuesday/Thursday. Your student may have class at 8 a.m. and then a long break until a 2 p.m. class. Class attendance may or may not be required by the instructor. There are events and social activities taking place at all hours of the day and night. Consequently, it is easy for a student to get distracted and lose focus on academic priorities. Some key steps to ensure success include:

- Remind your student that school is a full-time job. For each credit hour taken, students should plan on 2-3 hours of preparation time outside of the classroom.
- Your student should read and know each course syllabus – and become very familiar with the expectations and requirements of each course. The course syllabus includes all of the details, as well as instructor contact information and office hours.
- Encourage your student to use a planner – an essential tool in staying organized. Transfer key dates and deadlines from each syllabus to the planner. Plot out time in the classroom, time to study, work hours, volunteer hours, and also schedule in that oh-so-important free time. Balance is the key!
- Develop good study habits from the beginning. A college course isn’t like a high school course with daily worksheets and weekly chapters. College students need to be proactive and self-motivated in keeping up with course readings and project deadlines, because the instructor may not necessarily offer reminders. After all, everything is listed on the syllabus. And remember, if your student needs help, we have many campus resources to help students learn how to study.
HEALTH AND WELLNESS

SINDECUSE HEALTH CENTER

Sindecuse Health Center believes parents and families play a vital role in the health of your college student. We’ll serve as your family physician’s office away from home with board-certified clinicians who specialize in college health care. For students continuing their medical care, we coordinate with your primary-care clinician to transition treatments to Sindecuse. Our pharmacy offers prescription and over-the-counter medications and will gladly transfer outside prescriptions.

We offer clinical care by appointment and health education services including:
- Acute illness and injury care.
- Preventive health services including immunizations, allergy shots and nutrition counseling.
- Lab and x-ray services including orders from outside clinicians.
- Physical therapy, rehabilitation and massage therapy.
- Individual, group or couples counseling.
- Psychiatric and mental health care.

All WMU students are eligible to receive care at the health center, whether or not they are insured. If your student is insured, we will submit a claim to your insurance company. Insurance coverage may be purchased through WMU’s Student Health Insurance Program. Sindecuse also accepts Michigan Medicaid and Meridian Health Plan Medicaid. A list of participating insurance plans can be found on our website. To make the transition to Western easier, contact us to have your student’s medical records transferred to Sindecuse.

COUNSELING SERVICES

Counseling Services, located within the Sindecuse Health Center, offers confidential short-term individual, couples and group counseling. The counseling process can help students learn skills to cope with problems and develop new ways of thinking, which may lead to a healthier and more fulfilling lifestyle.

Your student’s time at Western Michigan University may include stress, complicated decisions or challenging situations. Counselors help students identify challenges and make changes to manage the emotional and social difficulties that might complicate college life:

- Relationship or family conflicts
- Stress and anxiety
- Grief or loss
- Social and peer pressure
- Sexual identity questions
- Trauma and post-traumatic stress
- Adjusting to college life
- Feeling down or depressed
- Body image or eating disorders

Every student is unique, so we tailor our services to suit your student’s particular needs, taking a holistic approach to treat the whole person. We collaborate with other clinicians at Sindecuse, or outside care professionals, to ensure counseling supports other care your student may receive. Our counselors are licensed mental health professionals and graduate student trainees under close supervision. Personal counseling assistance is available to all WMU students.

Visit wmich.edu/healthcenter/counseling or call (269) 387-1850.

FINDING BALANCE

UNIVERSITY RECREATION

WMU is devoted to providing facilities, programs and services that promote the total development of our students and employees in pursuit of a healthy lifestyle. The Student Recreation Center (SRC) serves on average 2,000 students, faculty and staff each day. The facility includes basketball courts, an indoor soccer area, volleyball courts, an aerobic room, a three story climbing wall, a weight training room, an indoor track and a recreational pool.

We offer personal training, sport leagues, sport clubs and group exercise, utilizing equipment and facilities designed to promote health and well-being. We support education by providing students the opportunity to participate in co-curricular activities that help reduce stress, while strengthening their bodies. Students that use the SRC indicated in a recent survey that they have more energy, less stress, and greater self-esteem. The SRC also assists students with healthy choices/habits, confidence and an appreciation of diversity, which help support college success.

Employment opportunities are available for students seeking leadership roles and the development of a productive healthier campus.

ACADEMIC LIFE AND EXPECTATIONS
We believe that student success is our shared objective. Here are topics to talk with your student about to reinforce academic success.

Go to class!
Skipping class is the #1 reason why students fail. It doesn’t matter if attendance is required or not. Instructors will share and discuss lecture materials during the class that may not be in the textbook… but for sure will be on the final exam!

30 Matters! Study at least 2-3 hours outside of the classroom for every credit hour in the classroom.
College is your student’s new full-time job. 12 credit hours in the classroom should equate to 24-36 hours of outside homework and review. Some classes will require more work than others, but this is a sound general rule for guidance.

Review the course material on a weekly basis.
Many final exams are comprehensive and cover the entire semester. Reviewing the material on a weekly basis will make studying for finals SO much less over-whelming.

Schedule social and “play” time.
Does your student love video games, soccer or playing Frisbee? Schedule time to enjoy these things and spend time with friends. And also be mindful of when it’s time to get back to the books!

Know when the last day to withdraw from a course is for each semester.
Sometimes no matter how hard a student works, it may be the prudent choice to withdraw from a specific course and take it at another time. WMU allows ample time during the semester to make a thoughtful decision about withdrawals. (But first check with the academic advising staff and financial aid.)

Start assignments early and break major projects into smaller manageable chunks.
You never know when you are going to get sick or mysterious computer problems might cause you fits. Planning and working ahead will allow ample time to finish assignments without undue stress.
Meet with an academic advisor every semester.
The academic advisors are the best resource to ensure that students are staying on track with their coursework and moving smoothly toward graduation. We encourage students to get to know and develop relationships with their advisors. They are a great source of advice and encouragement!

Get to know the course instructors.
Every instructor has weekly office hours which are listed on the syllabus. We encourage students to visit their instructors, ask questions, and seek clarification on the course material. Many times, instructors know of research, internship, and/or job opportunities that students might be interested in. Don’t lose out on these valuable relationships.

Seek out tutoring if/when needed...before it’s too late.
WMU offers many support services to students to ensure success in the classroom. Tutoring may be offered through the individual department, as well as through the Center for Academic Success. Encourage your student to take advantage of these free resources to get through those tough classes.

<td>Significant contact as most classes meet 5 days per week. One to one relationships and casual meetings before/after class. Frequent homework reminders.</td>

<td>Counseling/Advising</td>

Form study groups.
Many of the residence hall communities and the Center for Academic Success host study groups. Encourage your student to take advantage of these groups or form a new study group. Working with others can make studying more effective and enjoyable.

Know how to use the library and visit it frequently.
The resources found in University Libraries are essential to student success. The library staff is knowledgeable, friendly and well-equipped to assist students in finding the materials needed for any sort of project. It’s also a great place to study!

ACADEMIC RESOURCES

ACADEMIC ADVISING
Encourage your student to develop a relationship with WMU’s academic advisors. Advisors may be faculty, staff, administrators, graduate students or peer educators and advising at WMU will take many forms. Depending on the program of study, students may have more than one academic advisor. A student may have a curriculum advisor, major advisor and minor advisor. Each college advising office assists students in making connections to the appropriate advisor or advising office.

Advisors provide students with information and guidance as it relates to program/curriculum requirements, academic policies/procedures, and various academic issues and concerns. Advisors evaluate transfer courses for applicability to programs of study, assist with course selection, and refer students to appropriate resources and support services. Meeting with an advisor each semester is the best way to stay on track to degree completion.

Visit wmich.edu/registrar/advising/ for complete advising information.

CENTER FOR ACADEMIC SUCCESS PROGRAMS
The Center for Academic Success Programs (CASP) helps students succeed at WMU. All CASP services are FREE to WMU students. Areas within CASP include:

COMMUNICATION

Talk to your student about communication BEFORE college starts. How often do you need to hear from your student to know everything is ok? How do you want to communicate? Coming to a mutual agreement before your student comes to WMU can save your family a whole lot of stress and anxiety later.

You want your student to continue developing into a responsible, independent adult. So does WMU! We offer support in every area—with academics, social and emotional challenges, spiritual well-being, physical and mental health.

Your college student still NEEDS you—your wisdom, your counsel and most of all your love. Be encouraging and supportive through the challenging times, reassuring him or her of your trust, acceptance and confidence.

Allow your student to make mistakes and take responsibility for them. Most of us learn far more from bouncing back from our failures than from our successes. It’s important to allow our students that same opportunity to learn and grow from their own experiences.

If you sense something is not right, encourage your student to seek help. We have so many resources right here on campus. If your student is reluctant or refuses to seek assistance, let us know! We will quietly reach out to your student and offer help—in a confidential and non-judgmental way.

WMU FAMILY CONNECTION

Parents, guardians and other family members of WMU students are eligible for free membership in the WMU Family Connection. As a member, you will receive news and information of interest to parents and family members and invitations to special seminars, activities and events. Memberships are linked to a specific email address and we encourage all family members to sign up.
STAYING CONNECTED

The MyWMU Concierge Card offers discounts to area hotels, restaurants and retailers, along with national businesses. We encourage you to use your card during your visits to Kalamazoo for great savings and specials offered by our business partners.

Go to wmich.edu/parents to activate your free WMU Family Connection membership and request your MyWMU Concierge Card. For questions, contact Parent and Family Programs at wmu-parents@wmich.edu.

HOME VISITS

When your college student comes home, it can be an excellent opportunity to relax, catch up with each other, and offers the opportunity to appreciate your student’s continued development into a maturing young adult.
But sometimes the difference in expectations can cause conflict in the family. You may be planning get-togethers with extended family, along with lots of close bonding time with your student. Your student may be fantasizing about sleeping in his or her own bed till noon without the distraction of roommates or class schedules, as well as anticipating plenty of social time with old friends.

The change in your student’s independence might also cause a shock. You may have house rules, a set curfew, and expectations that your student will keep you well-informed of his or her whereabouts. On the other hand, your student has been independent while away at school and hasn’t had to answer to anyone regarding curfews or use of time. This disparity can cause an unexpected power struggle and ruin what should be a pleasant opportunity to re-connect with each other.

We encourage you to come to some agreements with your student prior to weekends or extended vacations home to help minimize conflict. Here are some thoughts and conversation starters:

- Talk together about how you want to spend your time and try not to plan every moment. Protect some time together, but also plan for time apart. It can be challenging for students to balance quality time with the family and still visit with friends. Your support and willingness to allow your student some space to make these decisions will be much appreciated. Consider that your student is not only re-adjusting to being at home, but also discovering that friends are changing and growing. If this is unsettling, you can be a great source of comfort as your student confronts and comes to terms with these changes.

- Talk about house rules and how you might re-adjust them to accommodate the growing independence your student has become used to. Students at college quickly learn to make their own decisions and also work through both intended and unintended consequences. With your student back home, allowing expanded freedom can create a challenge for you, but also helps to further the growing adult-to-adult relationship that you and your student are working towards. Students also need to be respectful of house rules and routines, so flexibility and mutual understanding is necessary from all involved.

- During the weekend (at appropriate quiet moments):
  - Talk about school (but try not to let it become an inquisition). What is going especially good this semester? What isn’t going so great? What classes are you taking next semester? Have you thought about living arrangements for next year?
  - In this conversation, it may be apparent that your student has changed - all students seem a bit different after having lived away from home for a time and that is very normal. However, if you sense a severe change or something seems really wrong, we encourage you to lovingly probe more deeply. Reassure your student that you are here to help, we at WMU are here to help, and that he or she doesn’t have to struggle with problems alone. Your student may not be ready to share specific details, but just showing your love and support goes a long way to be reassuring. And in the worst-case scenario of serious mental health concerns, thoughtfully consider whether it is in your student’s best interest to continue the semester or if another solution needs to be explored.

- Be prepared for change - your student is experiencing an increasingly open world in college and may express newly developing ideas surrounding lifestyle, religious, or political beliefs. WMU students are encouraged to respect and embrace diversity as they interact with people from all walks of life. They encounter new ideas and values that may differ from those they grew up with. Sometimes students struggle with reconciling these new and old ideals, so instead of letting this become an argument, use this terrific opportunity to engage in a productive dialogue with your student.

The main ingredient to a successful weekend or break is treating your student as an adult. Open and honest communication that emphasizes concern and interest, both before and during the visit will help to establish mutually agreeable expectations and boundaries.

END OF SEMESTER ADVICE
When final exams come around, most students find they are well-prepared because they stayed on track; attending their classes and keeping up with their coursework. Unfortunately some students lose their academic focus somewhere along the way and exam week can be a cold splash of reality. Facing the end of a less than positive semester can cause regrets, self-doubt, and discouragement.

When grades are posted each semester, you hope to celebrate your student’s success and offer well-deserved praise...but that may not be always be the case. Despite your disappointment, this can be an opportunity to forge a strong bond between you and your student; recognize your student as an adult, allow your student to take full responsibility for the choices made during the semester and create a plan for the future. So here is some advice to consider:

• Before you discuss a less than positive semester with your student, take a deep breath and try to calm your emotions. Your conversation will be much more fruitful if you can approach it with thoughtfulness and purpose.

• Your student likely feels worse than you do. Not only is he or she dealing with the consequences of poor academic performance, there is also the added stress of having disappointed you. These are powerful feelings and even more challenging than the sense of personal failure from a bombed out semester.

• If you approach the situation as a tough but valuable learning experience, your student may become stronger, both academically and personally. We learn much from our failures and even more from having the chance to rise above them. Everyone occasionally needs a “do over” and this may be your opportunity to encourage it.

• Talk to your student about what went wrong during the semester (preferably with a calm approach). Did he or she get caught up in the social scene? Attend class regularly? Need help with study skills? Have other issues that overshadowed the focus on academics? A conversation from the heart can be most helpful at this point - especially if you can find ways to approach your student as a young adult taking responsibility for his or her actions - and not just as your child who may have let you down.

• Talk about the next semester. It is a fresh start, an opportunity to begin again with a stronger sense of purpose and focus. Encourage your student to take advantage of campus resources that will prove beneficial in improving academic performance. Ask how you can help prepare for the return to college and provide helpful support during the next semester. What does your student need from you? What does your student need from us?

• And finally, remind your student how much you love ’em! He or she may have really messed up one semester, but your love doesn’t go away. Your trust and support are essential in moving towards positive change.

Advanced placement
Credit granted for examination programs or for transfer work.

Audit
Registering for and attending class(es) regularly without being held responsible for the work required for credit. Not eligible to sit for examinations. No credit hours are earned, and full tuition must be paid. The grade “AU” appears on the record.

Baccalaureate-level writing requirement
An upper-division requirement for all students. Each academic department designates courses to fulfill this requirement.

Bachelor’s degree
A degree granted after completing a specified amount of academic study beyond the completion of high school and fulfilling all graduation requirements.

Board
A term used for the meal plan (as in, room and board) at the University.

Capstone course or experience
A culminating holistic experience designed to review and more broadly understand the major issues, themes, theories, and research findings of the student’s discipline, often to enable the student to examine the relationship of the discipline to other areas.

Center
An organizational unit formed for purposes of linkage and visibility, focused on a theme, issue, or set of skills. A Center will frequently be interdisciplinary in nature. A Center does not offer degree programs but may, on rare occasions, offer a course or courses.

Class or credit hour load
The number of credit hours carried by a student each semester or session. A first semester freshman may not enroll for more than eighteen hours of work except by special permission, which is seldom granted unless the curriculum demands it. This regulation applies to total credit for work taken by extension or in some other institution, in addition to credit earned in residence at Western. The normal maximum load for the Summer I or Summer II session is nine hours.

Class standing
A classification based on the number of credit hours earned which indicates the level of a student:
Freshman A student credited with 0—25 hours inclusive.
Sophomore A student credited with 26—55 hours inclusive.
Junior A student credited with 56—87 hours inclusive.
Senior A student credited with 88 or more hours.

Cognate

College-level writing requirement
A lower-division writing requirement for all students. On the basis of test scores a basic writing course may be required as a prerequisite.

Concentration
A concentration (or option or emphasis) is a thematically coherent block of courses that are more similar to one another than to others in the degree program. A concentration has a title and constitutes a significant percentage (e.g., 10%) of courses in the degree program. Concentrations (or options or emphases) may be recorded on the student transcript.

Continuing education unit (CEU)
Recognition for participation in a non-credit program or workshop.
Coordinate major
A major—often interdisciplinary—that must be taken in conjunction with another major.

Corequisite
A course that must be taken at the same time as another course.

Course numbering system
The course numbering system is limited to four digits. Undergraduate courses are numbered from 1000 through 4999. Graduate courses are numbered 6000 through 7999. Courses numbered 5000 through 5999 are for graduate and advanced undergraduate students.

Credit/No Credit
A method used to evaluate performance in courses which is separate from the grade point system. Course grade does not affect GPA. “Credit” is earned for grades of “C” or better; grades of “DC” or below earn “No Credit.”

Students may elect for Credit/No Credit any course approved for General Education or General
Physical Education credit, as well as other courses not counting toward their major or specified in their curriculum as defined in this undergraduate catalog.

Credit hour
A unit of academic credit measured in semester hours or quarter hours. One credit hour usually represents one hour of class time per week. See also “semester hour.”

Degree student
A student who has been admitted to a degree category and is seeking a bachelor’s, master’s, or doctoral degree in a planned course of study.

Distribution requirement

- Humanities
- United States: Cultures and Issues
- Other Cultures and Civilizations
- Social and Behavioral Sciences
- Natural Science with Lab
- Natural Science and Technology
- Health and Well-Being

Drop
An official procedure for withdrawing from individual classes without removing registration from all classes. The deadline for the last day to drop a course without academic penalty (grade of “W” is on the transcript) is noted each semester or session in the Registration Information booklet. Students who do not follow the official procedure when dropping a class will earn the grade of “X” for that course; the “X” grade carries no honor points and affects the GPA in the same manner as an “E” or failing grade. See also “late drop.”

Elective
A course which will count as credit toward a degree but is not a specific program requirement.

Emphasis
A designated group of courses within a major program.

Field experience, practicum, work experience, co-op
Field experience: Actual practice, often away from the college campus, in a practical or service situation. In a teacher education program, it is usually conducted in schools.

Practicum: 1) A course of instruction aimed at closely relating the study of theory and practical experience, both usually carried on simultaneously; 2) an academic exercise consisting of study and practical work; and 3) supervised experience in counseling or a similar activity through such procedures as role-playing, recorded interviews, abstraction, analysis, and supervisory evaluation with interviewing techniques.

Work experience, co-op, or internship: A sponsored learning experience in an occupational area for persons preparing for full-time employment, conducted in connection with a course of study, where the students spend a part of their time on an actual job in a school, business, or industry.

Cooperative education: A program for persons enrolled in a school that provides for parallel or alternating study in school with a job in industry or business, the two experiences being so planned and supervised cooperatively by the school and the employer that each contributes definitely to the students’ development in their chosen occupation.

Cooperative program: An organizational pattern of instruction which involves regularly scheduled employment and which gives students an opportunity to apply classroom learning.

Full-time student
An undergraduate student who enrolls for twelve credit hours during Fall or Spring or for six credit hours during Summer I or Summer II. The University does allow full-time status to some co-op and intern classes, when it is the only class allowed a student during a semester or session. University Housing has its own regulations on the definition of hours needed to be eligible for housing contracts. Students should contact the University Housing Office for this information. The above definitions are Western Michigan University regulations and may or may not be accepted by other agencies.

Gate course
A course in fundamentals in which a student must achieve a grade of “C” or “Credit” in order to qualify for enrollment in upper division courses of a curriculum.

Good standing
A designation that signifies that a student is eligible to continue, to return, or to transfer elsewhere. It implies good academic standing; that is, an overall GPA of 2.00 or better.

Grade point
The numerical value given to letter grades. For example an “A” is equivalent to 4 points per semester hour, a “BA” to 3.5 points, a “B” to 3 points and so on. No points are earned for an “E” grade. Also referred to as “honor points.”

Grade point average (GPA)
A student’s scholastic average computed by dividing total grade or honor points by total credit hours attempted.

Graduation audit

Grant
Financial assistance awarded to a student which does not have to be repaid; usually based on need.

Guest student
A degree student from another college who is taking courses at Western Michigan University for one semester. The credits earned are usually transferred back to the student’s home institution. A guest student may also wish to enroll in WMU courses for reasons other than seeking a degree. Guest student status does not constitute admission to a degree or certificate program.

Hold
A barrier placed on a student’s ability to register for classes as a result of an unfulfilled monetary obligation or other action by the University.

Honors
Designation indicated on the college degree and transcript to reflect outstanding scholarship. Honors are conferred upon graduating students who have displayed a high level of performance during their university career. Recipients of honors receive their degrees:
- Cum laude when grade point average is 3.50 to 3.69, inclusive
- Magna cum laude when grade point average is 3.70 to 3.89, inclusive
- Summa cum laude when grade point average is 3.90 to 4.00, inclusive
To be eligible for honors, students must have earned at least fifty-six semester hours of credits at WMU, fifty of which, must be graded by a letter grade and computed into the final cumulative grade point average.

Scholarship
Financial assistance to students awarded on the basis of academic achievement. Financial need may or may not be a factor.

Tuition
The amount of money which must be paid for courses based on the number of credits for which the student registers.

Upper division

The deadline for the last day to withdraw from all courses without academic penalty (grade of “W” is on the transcript) is noted each semester or session in the Registration Information booklet. Students who do not follow the official procedure when withdrawing from the University will earn the grade of “X” for all courses; the “X” grade carries no honor points and affects the GPA in the same manner as an “E” or failing grade.
