WAIS-IV: Administration in Challenging Clinical Situations

Jessica H. Kinkela, Ph.D., ABPP-Clinical Neuropsychology

Director of Psychology Training and Staff Neuropsychologist Battle Creek VA Medical Center

A new assessor presents to a clinical setting, feeling reasonably prepared to administer the WAIS-IV to a client. Unfortunately, the client responds in unexpected ways. This brown bag seminar will review frequently made mistakes and common challenging patient presentations occurring in psychological testing with the WAIS-IV. Recommendations for ways to address patient behaviors and individual differences, recover from errors, and avoid common mistakes in the first place will be explored. Those attending are welcome to bring examples of specific challenging assessment situations for discussion. Addressing individual and cultural differences in assessment situations will be integrated throughout the talk.
