Western Michigan University Speech Pathology and Audiology Transfer Guide

Introduction:

- ❖ The undergraduate program is pre-professional in nature and is designed to prepare students for graduate professional education in speech-language pathology, audiology, or speech sciences.
- ❖ Students interested in this major should contact the advising office within the College of Health and Human Services for an appointment with an undergraduate advisor. Because the sequencing of courses included in this major is critically important, students must seek academic advising on an early and regular basis.
- ❖ We recommend that transfer students enroll at WMU at the beginning of the first semester of the sophomore year. Those who enroll later may find that an additional period of study will be required to complete the undergraduate curriculum.

Admission requirements for the major in Speech Pathology and Audiology:

- ❖ Minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5 in all coursework post high school.
