WMU Office for Sustainability with Joshua Turske

Have you ever wondered who empties all of those recycling bins on campus? Well wonder no more! Meet Josh Turske! Though he jokes that this job has killed his sense of smell, he knows it is important for the campus community as well as the Office for Sustainability. He recycles specific items like batteries and printer cartridges as well as checks the recycling bins and cardboard dumpsters for contamination. Next time you use one of the recycling bins (and we hope you use them often!) think of Josh and take the time to put your items in the right spot. Stay tuned next week for another student highlight from the OfS!
