

Dr. Emily Lenning

Fayetteville State University

Department of Criminal Justice

Assistant Professor

Education: Ph.D., Western Michigan University, 2008

Within the field of Criminology, her research and publications focus on corporate and state crime, international law, the social construction of deviance, and media representations of crime and justice.

Dr. Lenning has taught at Western Michigan University and Kalamazoo College, where she received several awards for outstanding teaching.

She is actively involved in both the college and broader academic community, serving as faculty advisor for VOX (Voices of Planned Parenthood), and as a member of the executive board for the Division of Women & Crime of the American Society of Criminology.

For more information about Dr. Lenning see: <http://www.uncfsu.edu/crimjust/faculty/elenning.htm>