

International Opportunities in Public Administration Preview for 2017

ORGANIZATIONAL ADMINISTRATION: Refugees in Tanzania

This is a fascinating placement working in Burundian & Congolese refugee camps in Tanzania.

This is a great place to get experience with how an NGO is funded, monitored and run.

Work in communications, media, marketing, fund raising, logistics, finance, M&E, report writing and/or procurement.

Work at the main office in Dar es Salaam or "out in the middle of nowhere" in western Tanzania.

They ask one month commitment minimum; 3 months is better. Swahili, French & English are languages used.

GRANT WRITING: Nepal Trafficking

~7,000 young women or girls are trafficked from Nepal into the sex trade in India per year.

This is one of the few trafficking organizations that welcomes international interns and volunteers.

Nepal, being a very poor country, has few sources of funding so they need grant writers & fund raisers.

Almost all of our partner organizations in Africa, Asia and South America struggle with funding.

If you have strong grant writing or fund raising ability, there are many places that need you.

MONITORING & EVALUATION: Uganda & Rwanda

Work in an excellent organization that has branches all over the world.

Practice what you have learned of Monitoring and Evaluation in their programs in health, education, agriculture, youth, media and conflict prevention.

This position requires that you are in graduate school or already have your MPA.

Work in this position is a helpful step in the door in international development.

COSTA RICA: Learning to Lead by Laughing

Our micro-finance program in Costa Rica is lead by one of the most hilarious directors I have ever met!

She always has her staff in stitches, and thus willing to do anything to help the team.

Come learn about leadership from one of the best. Spanish fluency is a must.

RWANDA: Cooperative Management

After the genocide, there was much reconciliation work that went on. At the end of this phase, it was decided that the next step was for Tutsis and Hutus to work side-by-side. The cooperatives that are throughout Rwanda are an experiment in healing. Rwanda has asked for people that are experienced in cooperative management to train Rwandans.

UGANDA: Strategic Planning

Women's organization in the beautiful Rwenzori Mountains of Uganda is asking for help with strategic planning.

Like other African NGO's, non-profits have existed for 10 years or less. They are now asking for help in how they run their organization and achieve their goals. If you have both a head for strategy and mentoring, we need you!
