THE US-CHINA TRADE DISPUTE: ASEAN NATION PERSPECTIVES

Tuesdays 4 to 5:40 p.m.  January 15 to March 1

This course will explore the potential impact of the current U.S.-China trade dispute on smaller regional trading partners such as the ASEAN nations (Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand, Singapore), and will discuss how this might drive these potential trade partners away from the U.S. Dr. Matthew Mingus (Public Affairs and Administration) and Dr. Jing Zhu (Management, Political Science)

CRN 15432

FOOD, EMOTIONS, AND CONSERVATION

The Example of the Green Sea Turtle
Thursdays 10 to 10:50 a.m.  CRN 15433

Written material on the turtle as a food item during the European exploration of the Atlantic changes significantly as concerns with the conservation of turtle populations emerge in the mid-twentieth century. This course examines the cultural, economic, emotional, ecological, and historical contexts that affect these sustainability efforts by exploring the literature of the green sea turtle.

Dr. John Saillant (English and History)

MIGRATION AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

Mondays and Wednesdays 10 to 10:50 a.m.  January 7 to February 22  CRN 15434

In a complex, and often unstable, system of global climate change, economics, and politics, the reasons for migration across international borders are equally complicated. This course will consider contemporary migrations of the last 50 years to the Global North (North America and Western Europe), and will examine the ethical issues of immigration and refugee policies.

Dr. Elise DeCamp (Anthropology)